HURRICANE SMOTHERS S. E. FLORIDA COAST

CENTER OF FURY PLACED 60 MILES SOUTH OF MIAMI

PREDICTED IT MAY SWERVE
INTO GULF OF MEXICO TOW-ARDS NEW ORLEANS

CABLE LINE IS STILL OPEN TO
KEY WEST, DAMAGE GROWS
HOURLY

(By United Press)

The tropical hurricane, threatening the American coast for the past three days, moved inland today and winds of gale force smashed at Florida.

Miami, Palm Beach and other Florida cities reported the terrific winds—ranging from 40 to 80 miles an hour in velocity—and the United States weather bureau advised that the full force of the hurricane would strike the Florida coast some time today.

Already death and destruction has been reported from this new menace of the south. Nassau, Bahamas, silent since Wednesday, reported in today telling that the worst storm since 1896 had struck the islands Wednesday and Thursday.

Four deaths are known. Iron structures were tangled into grotesque designs. Buildings were unroofed and razed. The government house was one of the worst damaged while schools and churches were smashed by the terrific force of the winds.

It was the first report of actual damage from the storm. Wednesday the radio communication and wire communication with the island group went out and since then there has been uneasiness as reports of the storm trickled in. It was found today that the sending station was damaged some by the winds, thereby cutting off the Bahamas from communication with the outer world.

Even last night the wind was blowing with fury in the Bahamas and Elmin may have received some great damage. There was no sign in Nassau of the winds abating. United Press correspondents reported.

Today the storm started moving in on the United States. Barometers dropped. Tropical Radio reported that the barometer at Key West was falling at the rate of a point and a half every hour.

Miami yesterday had a scare. A gale smashed in on the city and died out within an hour. Many considered this a warning for Miami still remembers details of other hurricanes which have left their scars on the city.

Early today the winds started again. The barometer dropped slowly by 7.30 A. M. The United States weather bureau at Washington reported the wind had reached 56 miles an hour at Miami and over 42 miles an hour at Key West. The barometric readings were lower.

The weather bureau report from Washington that the hurricane would strike the lower coast full on, left the hundreds of thousands who had hoped against hope that the great storm would pass by, stoical and anxious.

From Palm Beach to the peninsula tip—in fact all along the gay winter seaboard—every precaution had been taken to avert a disaster. There was little to do but wait. A special train for relief work was made up, all civic agencies mobilized and in each city and town more substantial structures converted for use as storm refuges.

Miami, usually so gay in spirit, was a city distraught and touchy. Kerosene lamps were used during the early hours as the power supply went out. Elevators in the crowded hotels were not running.

Miami, Fla., Sept. 28.—(U.P.)—Center of the tropical hurricane smothering the southeast coast of Florida with its fury was placed 60 miles south of here at 10 A. M. today by the weather bureau. High and disastrous winds prevailed generally, but only slight damage had resulted here at that hour.

Weather Bureau Chief R. W. Gray predicted the hurricane would swerve across the end of the peninsula and into the Gulf of Mexico towards New Orleans.

The wind here blew at 50 miles an hour velocity at 11 A. M.

All wires between here and West Palm Beach went down early today, the telephone and telegraph companies reported.

A cable line only to Key West still operated.

Damage here grew with the hours. At Miami Beach, debris was strewn along boulevards, palm trees and telegraph poles toppling.

The trees causeways connecting Miami Beach with Miami were splashed by heavy seas that broke through in two places. Cocoanuts were driven about streets like bowling balls.

As the day advanced thousands of refugees from outlying towns poured into the city, coming by automobile, afoot and on horseback.

The scene downtown was without parallel, even in the 1926 blow. Everyone had sought shelter as the wind rose to hurricane velocity of nearly 90 miles an hour, cutting around corners with a roar and slapping against houses and buildings with a bang.

A rescue party left in the midst of the storm for the Florida Keys on a special train, after reports came that a ferry boat had been lost with a crew of ten near No Name Key, where a terrific gale was blowing.

BARELEG FAD DISCOURAGED IN LYNN, MASS.

Lynn, Mass., Sept. 28.—(U.P.)—Mayor Ralph S. Bauer today issued orders calling for the arrest of any girls over 12 years who appear on the streets of Lynn or in public with her stockings rolled below her knees.

In commenting on the fad the mayor said:

"It is most unladylike."

DEATH WRITES LAST ENTRY IN FLIER'S LOG

MISS JOSEPHINE CALLAHAN, LOS ANGELES GIRL, FLEW DESPITE PHYSICAL DEFECTS

BORN WITHOUT ARMS, SHE HAD SPECIALLY FITTED CONTROLS TO OPERATE

Arlene, Texas, Sept. 28.—(U.P.)—Death wrote the last entry in the aerial log book of Miss Josephine Callahan, Los Angeles, who distinguished herself as an aviatrix despite the fact she was born without arms.

When her body was lifted from the twisted specially constructed cockpit of her airplane yesterday after it plunged from 2,000 feet to a cotton field near here, a logbook and a letter fell from a pocket of her flying suit. One told of the girl flier's determined struggle to obtain a pilot's license. The other detailed progress of her flight from Los Angeles to Washington, D. C., where she intended to prove to authorities she was qualified to fly despite her physical handicap.

Derry Berry, manager of the Abilene airport, witnessed the crash and said he believed Miss Callahan lost consciousness or that the controls of her plane froze. Her body was removed with difficulty from the cockpit in which the controls were specially fitted to be operated by the girl's half-arms.

Stanley Joyce, millionaire Chicago lumberman who was the fourth husband of the much-married Peggy Joyce, charged his second wife, Mrs. Nellie M. Joyce, with bigamy and illicit relations with other men in an answer filed here to her divorce suit.

Joyce charged his wife was not divorced from her first husband and obtained a divorce from her second on perjured testimony. He also charged she lived with men in her home here and came home intoxicated and assaulted him.

Mrs. Joyce No. 2 charged cruelty in her divorce suit. That was the grounds on which Peggy Joyce obtained her divorce.

Body of Huggins Taken to Cincinnati

New York, Sept. 28.—(U.P.)—The body of Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees who died here Wednesday, was on its way to Cincinnati today for burial Sunday.

Brief funeral services were held here yesterday at the Little Church Around the Corner, attended by baseball men from all parts of the country, members of the team Huggins led, and members of the family.

Several thousand persons viewed the body as it lay in state in the church Thursday afternoon and evening, and yesterday morning.

Miami with Tampa on the West Coast went out before noon. The barometer reading here at that hour was 29.77, a drop of one point in half an hour.

A heavy rain that cut to the skin still fell.

At Key West, as well as here, all business was suspended.

Across the ferry slips at Matecumbe and No Name Keys between here and Key West a wind of terrific velocity howled.

Naval station craft at Key West were ready for dispatch if vessels were in distress.

Tropical Radio reported Havana, Cuba, experiencing a heavy blow, with huge seas overturning three buses loaded with passengers on a boulevard.

Boston, Sept. 28.—(U.P.)—At 1:25 P. M. today Miami was being swept by a 90 to 100-mile southeast wind, according to a report received by Tropical Radio Company from its Miami station.

The barometer was 29.34, the sky heavily overcast and rain was falling.

The message said that communication with Nassau, Bahamas, broken off earlier in the day, had been re-established.

One of Most Appalling Tragedies in History, Slaughter of 10,000 Moslems and Many Chinese

DETAILS COME TO LIGHT MONTHS AFTER MASSACRE

CHINESE RETALIATED WHEN THEY DISCOVERED MOSLEMS HAD ATTACKED KINSMEN

CHINESE ARMY BATHES TAO-CHOW IN BLOOD, TIBETANS IN ORGY OF KILLING

By RANDALL GOULD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Shanghai, Sept. 28.—Authentic details received today from Kansu concerning the slaughter of 10,000 Moslems and hundreds of Chinese during the Moslem revolt at Taochow in May—one of the most appalling tragedies in history—revealed the fact that Chinese hurled themselves upon the Moslem population with murderous fury after they discovered that 700 of their people had been killed by Moslems in one day.

Moslem women were reported to have massacred 500 Tibetan women and children. Villages were burned and looted and living victims were flung into the rivers to perish. In July an army of 5,000 Chinese troops arrived and killed 3,000 Moslems in the Taochow district while the Tibetans slew more than 2,000 Moslems who were fleeing along the Hsiangtang valley.

When the Chinese entered the old city of Tao-Chao they killed hundreds of Moslems including many who sought refuge in the missionary homes. The missionaries, among whom were several Americans, were unharmed.

Among the other officers chosen was Mrs. Willard Freeman, St. Cloud corresponding secretary.

LOS ANGELES POLICE SEEK TO FIND TRACE OF MORRIE MOLL

Los Angeles, Sept. 28.—(U.P.)—An attempt to locate Morrie Moll, who jumped bond in St. Paul, Minn., recently, was being made by police here today on the theory that he was one of three men who shot to death David Antink, Sun Drug company executive.

Moll was identified by Antink at St. Paul several months ago as one of the trio which slugged and robbed him of $20,000 in drug company funds six years ago. Moll was known to have nursed a desire for vengeance at the time he was released on bond to two underworld characters.

KELLOGG TO BE HONORED BY FRENCH NATION

Washington, Sept. 28.—(U.P.)—The Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor, the highest decoration within the power of France to bestow is to be conferred upon former Secretary of State Kellogg in a ceremony at the French embassy here early in November, Ambassador Paul Claudel announced today.

In announcing award of the honor, Ambassador Claudel said:

"The name of Mr. Kellogg for this distinction, which is the highest honor France can give, was proposed to the president of the French republic by M. Aristide Briand, whose intimate collaboration with Mr. Kellogg at the time he was secretary of state brought about the signature of the Paris pact on Aug. 27, 1928."

Kellogg has acknowledged and accepted notification of the award and the ceremony probably will take place Nov. 11, Armistice Day, although it has not been definitely set.

St. Paul, Sept. 28.—"France pays me a high honor for which I am deeply grateful," former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg said to the United Press today when he was informed that he was to be decorated with the grand cross of the legion of honor.

MRS. SAM RASK NEW HEAD OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

The Blooming Prairie woman was elected state leader at the close of the organization's annual convention to succeed Mrs. Willard Bayliss of Chisholm. In accepting the diamond brooch worn by the President Mrs. Rask pledged her "undivided effort" toward a program of work which shall be dedicated to the upbuilding and enrichment of our community life and the welfare of our state and nation as a whole.

Among the other officers chosen was Mrs. Willard Freeman, St. Cloud corresponding secretary.

9 BALLOONS IN GORDON BENNETT BALLOON RACE

BEAR COLORS OF 6 NATIONS, ENTERED IN 18TH INTERNATIONAL CONTEST

RACE COURSE IS CONTINENT OF NORTH AMERICA, STAKE IS 3RD BENNETT CUP

St. Louis, Sept. 28.—(U.P.)—Nine balloons, bearing the colors of six nations, were to rise from the ground here today and drift away with the wind in the 18th annual Gordon Bennett international balloon race.

The race course is the continent of North America. The stake is the third Gordon Bennett cup, classic trophy of aeronautics. It will go to the balloon landing farthest away from St. Louis. An additional cash prize of $3,000 will go to the winner, and $1,000, $800, $600, $400 and $200 to the other five leading contestants.

The weather reports today indicated that the balloons would drift north and slightly west from St. Louis, up the Mississippi valley, through central Iowa, a diagonal line from end to end of Minnesota, and on into the wilderness of south central Canada.

If the bags float at the usual speed of 25 to 30 miles per hour dawn tomorrow will find them over northern Iowa and southern Minnesota. By nightfall they will probably be well past the Twin Cities; and if any are still aloft at daybreak Monday, they will probably be drifting over the lakes and pine forests of the Lake-of-the-Woods region of Canada.

The nine great bags 53 feet in diameter and 100 feet high, were filled with coal gas this morning and stood straining at the fastenings which held their baskets to the ground.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the ropes will be cast away from the Esplanade, of Germany. From then on at five minute intervals the other eight balloons will rise, until, about sunset, the last entry, the Lafayette of France will leave the field.

From then on every communication agency in the path of the race will be on the lookout for the bags. As each craft is forced to land, with its gas and ballast exhausted, the pilots will communicate by phone or telegraph with the National Aeronautic Association at Washington. Each pilot will also be equipped with weighted envelopes in which messages to the Aeronautic Association will be dropped from the basket when the craft passes over towns.

Favored to win the race are the French Lafayette and the United States Army, of Scott Field, Belleville, Ill. These two, which will take off eighth and ninth, will have the best opportunity to observe the effect of wind currents on the preceding craft.

The balloons, without steering apparatus or power of their own, are almost entirely at the mercy of winds. The pilots can regulate the altitude by casting off ballast in the form of small sacks of sand, when they wish to ascend and letting gas escape from the bag, when they want to sink lower.

Each craft is equipped with a barograph which records the altitude of the flight, a sextant and compass for finding the position of the balloon, a rubber boat for use in case of a water landing, and food and water sufficient for five days. Several carry radio sets.

Landing on water, on a ship or leaving the balloon while it is in the air, disqualifies an entry. To avoid a crash or a water landing pilots may throw everything movable from the basket to lessen the craft's weight.

The crowd of 40,000 expected to witness the start will be patrolled by soldiers from nearby Jefferson Barracks, and by police reserves. Stringent regulations against smoking near the balloons will be enforced. A spark floating into a whiff of the illuminating gas might destroy all nine craft.

The world's record of 1,334 miles set in 1912, will be the object of the contestants. This year's trophy is the third Gordon Bennett cup, two previous cups having been permanently awarded to Ernest Demutter, Belgian pilot, and Capt. W. E. Kepner of the United States Army, for winning the race three consecutive times.

PRES. HOOVER IS CAREFULLY STUDYING BUDGET

INCREASE IN VETERANS' BURAU OF OVER 8 MILLION DOLLARS FOR 1930

NO FIGURES AVAILABLE AT THIS TIME OF ALL DEPARTMENT NEEDS FOR 1931

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 28.—A month's intensive study of prospective government expenditures for the next fiscal year has given President Hoover little hope that the 1931 budget can be held down to the $3,800,000,000 estimates for the current year.

Thus far, the president has found in his budget studies no promise for tax reductions in the near future. Preliminary estimate for 32 independent establishments of the government total $656,500,000 for 1931 against appropriations of $650,000,000 in the current fiscal year, ending June 30, 1930.

The increase is in the veterans' bureau, which will need $606,225,000 next year against $597,987,000 in 1930.

These 32 establishments require, on the average, approximately one-fifth of the total budget, but the president has no figures as yet which enables him to estimate the total of the 1931 budget for the various executive departments, the legislative establishment and the post office.

From all these departments combined, however, fiscal experts anticipate increased budget estimates. How great these increases will be will depend in a large measure upon the outcome of the naval reduction negotiations, progress made in revision of postal rates to eliminate the postoffice deficit, and the alacrity with which the army general staff can reduce expenses through the reorganization study recently suggested by the president.

But even should the regular executive departments keep down their estimates to the 1930 figures, the whole governmental organization will still require vastly more money next year. The federal farm board, which has $151,500,000 this year, has not yet submitted a preliminary estimate of 1931 needs. Whatever the farm board demands above $150,000,000 next year will represent increased outlay for the government as a whole.

In addition, the president has already approved a $10,000,000 prison building program and $2,500,000 additional for public buildings in Washington. The 15 cruiser naval building program, even if trimmed in the naval conferences, would require upwards of $20,000,000 for the 1931 portions.

White House expenses are estimated at $402,320 for 1931, against appropriations of $611,944 in the current year. The shipping board will get along with $6,300,000 against $11,494,000 appropriated this year. The interstate commerce commission will have $10,000,000 more and the Porto Rican hurricane commission, $1,000,000 less. The federal trade commission will have $200,000 more and the national advisory committee for aeronautics, $200,000 less.

It was Steinite which set the pace years ago with the first low-priced electric set. Today it is Steinite which is setting the pace with its SUPER Screen-Grid Radio at $118.

Steinite's research department, years in the lead, with knowledge that years of experience bring has conceived and produced this remarkable radio. Steinite's tremendous facilities, its mass production methods, its true one-profit manufacture, has made it possible to offer this set to the American radio public at a price which, dollar for dollar, gives you all that you can have in fine radio.

Steinite's new set alone would have commanded nation-wide attention. Its amazing price has earned the approval of every knowing radio buyer. Check its features—carefully—with the features offered by any other radio. Do not be content with anything less—for all the new and desirable things in radio are among them. Once you have made your comparison, you, like thousands of others, will know Steinite as—

Who Is to Blame?

THE Albert Lea Tribune records a true story that happened in a town in Iowa. A man entered a store and made a small purchase. As the merchant was wrapping it up for him, the customer pointed to a package under his arm and said:

"I wonder if you would mind wrapping this up a little better for me. It got kinda damaged in shipping."

"Not at all," said the merchant.

"What have you been getting?"

"Some kind of patented salt I've been reading about in the farm magazines," replied the customer. It was announced in an advertisement the other day that they had just got in a carload and were selling it at a special price in ten-pound lots so I sent for some to try it out. It's something new, I guess, and I've never seen any of it, but I thought I'd try it out on this special offer."

"What did it cost you?" queried the storekeeper. The customer told him.

"Huh!" snorted the storekeeper, "Special, my eye! They just hooked you, that's all, I have it right here and sell it every day at 10 cents a pound less and you don't have to take it in ten pound lots either."

"The deuce you say!" returned the customer. "Don't that beat all? I've been reading it in the farm papers quite a while and thinking I'd try some. I didn't know where to get it until I read it in an ad the other day, and then I sat right down and sent in my order."

"Better try buying at home next time," announced the proprietor a little acidly, as he handed him the rewrapped package. "You'd have saved a dollar on this."

"Thanks for the advice," returned his customer with his hand on the door latch. "Now let me give you some. You better try advertising what you have to sell and at what price. I'd have bought some from you a long time ago if I'd known you carried it, but you just sat back and waited for me to come and buy it."

"The advertisement told me they had it, and I bought from them. Probably a lot more of your customers did the same, and I don't see that you can blame them if they did. When a business house lets me know it has something I want I am going to buy from them instead of going some place else to ask if they have it. If you don't think enough of your customers to inform them what you have to sell you'll continue losing business to the fellow who does."

The Young Coolidge Couple

WE hope the young Coolidge couple will be permitted to spend their two weeks vacation without being harassed by reporters.

However, many a good news story rests out there in the Maine woods. They have set up housekeeping in a wilderness camp and Florence is to do all her cooking on an oil stove, far away from a corner grocery or delicatessen store. Such a thing as varying the menu by having a dinner at a cafe, just for a change, will be unthought of.

The young Mrs. Coolidge approaches her culinary tasks with confidence. It is said she knows how to cook and she has known John Coolidge long enough to know what he likes and does not like.

When they are through with the honeymoon, other tasks confront the couple. The young Mrs. Coolidge has always stressed economy. John is being paid $25 a week as a clerk in a railway office. The flat they have engaged costs $78 a month. That does not leave much of a spread after the rent is paid.

The Sere and Yellow Leaf

THE sere and yellow leaf period of life is supposed to presage disintegration, but in the autumn of our cycle of seasons it brings out all the beautiful colors.

Nothing is more interesting than driving one's car slowly on a quiet road in wooded country and seeing the vivid as well as sober hues of leaves. There are reds, browns, golden, yellow, all shades with a background at times of the faithful green of the pines which never change shade except when drought or fire is close.

Every vista carries its change of scenery. The woods are never monotonous. Their most colorful mood is now before the winds shake down all the leaves and lay a soft matting for winter's snows.

A Grim Situation

No more appalling situation can be imagined than down in Florida where people, believing themselves in the path of a hurricane, are boarding up their windows, keeping the children from school, and praying the visitation will pass without damage.

Cyclone cellars are not very common as digging any depth brings water to the surface. With several hurricanes in past years leaving a terrible mark on the state and following the same general path, one can only hope and pray that impending disaster may be averted.

Nature, when aroused and manifesting itself in volcanic, hurricane or tidal wave force, makes the work and efforts of common humanity look puny and pitiful. Nothing man-made withstands the shock.

Fixed Speed Limits

FIXED speed limits are abolished in Wisconsin, in a new traffic code which was adopted by the Wisconsin legislature shortly before its adjournment last month. Drastic penalties are provided for reckless driving. With the exception of the speed provisions, the new code is generally along the same lines as the traffic act adopted in Minnesota two years ago.

The Iowa legislature last spring removed the fixed speed limits outside of cities and villages, except on vehicles weighing more than three tons. The Iowa traffic code also provides heavy penalties for careless driving. Similar action was taken this year in Indiana. Michigan removed its speed limits two years ago.

Speeds Slate Quarrying

The wire saw has revolutionized slate quarrying in Pennsylvania. The general average of cutting is about twenty to twenty-five square feet per hour. The traveling speed of the wire is about fifteen feet per second.

BREMER SEES VAST CHANGES AMONG BANKS

ST. PAUL FINANCIER, OTTO BREMER, HOLDS INTEREST IN 45 BANKS IN 4 STATES

DEPOSITS OF INSTITUTIONS TOTAL MORE THAN $60,000,000, RESOURCES OVER $75,000,000

J. C. Hammond in a special front page article published in the St. Paul Dispatch gives the results of an interview with Otto Bremer, of St. Paul, one of the most widely known financiers of the Northwest who is well known in Brainerd, where he is vice president of the Citizens State Bank of Brainerd.

"Great changes are taking place in banking. We cannot tell what the final results will be in the structure of the banking world. We can only wait and see."

This was the answer made by Otto Bremer, St. Paul capitalist, when asked if the banks with which he is associated would enter either of the two large banking groups recently formed in the Northwest.

Mr. Bremer, chairman of the American National Bank of St. Paul, holds large stock interests in 45 banks in Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana and western Wisconsin with deposits totaling more than 60 million dollars and resources in excess of 75 million.

For more than a quarter of a century he has been acquiring holdings in banks in the Northwest until he has become a national figure in this field and is reputed to have the most widely diversified interests in bank stocks of any man in the country. He is a stockholder in many large city banks in the East and West, but his principal interests are in Northwest banks.

In all of his banking connections Mr. Bremer stresses the fact that he and his interests are interested primarily in assisting the upbuilding of home industry in agricultural and other communities where the banks are situated.

"I the past 25 years I have become associated in many banks in the Northwest," he said. "At no time have I ever gone out and bought an interest. In every case I have been invited to become a stockholder or have had a part in organization."

"As a matter of fact I have, as an individual, been doing very much the same thing in acquiring banking interests in the Northwest as the two recently organized large bank stock holding companies, except that I have not been seeking banks."

Mr. Bremer considers himself an "investor in bank stocks" rather than as the head of a group of banks. Numerous times he has been called to assist a "sick bank" and help place it on its feet.

"Where the local bankers will cooperate to clean up a situation I have often joined them as a stockholder," Mr. Bremer said. "I draw no salary from any bank with which I am connected. Each institution is run separately. There is no chain nor definite group banking plan involved. I have no holding company or large central organization. As one of the principal points of contact I assist the smaller banks in purchasing securities for their investments without a charge for this service."

"I insist that the banks with which I am associated shall limit their dividends to 6 per cent on invested capital, putting all of the rest of the income into surplus or undivided profits."

Six years ago Mr. Bremer, at the request of the late John H. Rich, then governor of the Ninth Federal Reserve bank, gave an opinion on the chain banks that were in fashion at that time. He then criticized the practice of such companies in making their income out of service charges and in shifting paper from one bank to another. Present holding companies now expanding so rapidly in the banking field are entirely different in character from the chain banks which he then criticized.

The American National Bank of St. Paul recently has added a trust department to its other banking facilities. The deposits of this bank now exceed $17,500,000, and the total assets are approximately $19,000,000. It is the second largest banking organization in St. Paul.

Federal Agents Arrest 24 Suspected Bootleggers in St. Paul

St. Paul, Sept. 28.—(AP)—Reports of a pending cleanup drive against dry law violators rang true here today after federal agents arrested 24 suspected bootleggers.

Prohibition enforcement authorities refused to find any connection between the drive and the visit here next week of Dr. James D. Dorn, national dry administrator.

Among the suspected liquor vendors was one man charged with the sale of moonshine whiskey to high school boys.

CRIPPLED BRAINERD TEAM DEFEATS WADENA, 13 TO 6

BOTH TEAMS USE AERIAL ATTACK TO ADVANTAGE

RECOVERY OF FUMBLE, RUN BY SCHUETZ AND PLUNGE BY HAUTALA NETS TOUCHDOWN

LUKENS SHOWS FLASHY STYLE;
HAUTALA, GUIN AND LAMERE
IN FINAL SCORING

A Brainerd team crippled by injury and hard hit by old man ineligibility hung up the local high's first football victory of the season yesterday afternoon at the municipal field, defeating Wadena 13 to 6.

The victory was hard earned and costly in that it left the squad with a crippled center, Foster, injured early in the game by a crack on the knee, fought gamely to remain in the fray. He was replaced by Kinney, started again in the second half and was forced to be carried from the field because of the seriousness of his injury.

Ineligibility hit the ranks of Coach Kasch's charges Wednesday when three of the regulars and two reserves were declared unable to play because of study requirements.

It left Coach Kasch in a trying situation. He had been forced to break in an entirely new combination Thursday night. Lukens and Lamere went to end positions in the absence of Hoffbauer and Lammon and Guin took up the lone duties of quarterback with Halvorson out of the game. Severnson, reserve end and Wyatt, reserve tackle, were also ineligible.

The locals got their first break of the game in the first quarter when Guin broke through to recover a fumble on a punt to Wadena on Wadena's 20 yard line. On the next two plays Schuetz tore through for ten yards and Hautala plunged over the line. The kick for point after touchdown went wide.

Clever football, a completed forward pass, and end run and a pass, Miller to Zosel netted Wadena a touchdown in the third quarter. A forward pass for the point after was knocked down.

The Brainerd squad completed three forward passes to net the deciding touchdown, the Hautala-Guin combination working effectively in two of Hautala passed to Lamere who carried these. Blocked in the third attempt, the ball over. Guin caught the pass to carry the ball over the line for a point after.

The cleverest football displayed by any single player on the field was accomplished by Lukens who broke through the line on three occasions to pounce on fumbles for large gains for Brainerd.

Joe Gabou saw service at half substituting for Anderson.

More than 700 people saw the game, the first home tilt of the season.

The lineups:
Brainerd: Foster, center, Abrahamson, Schobe, guards; Garvey and Moe, tackles; Lukens and Lamere, ends; Schuetz, Anderson, halves; Guin, quarter; Hautala, full back.

Wadena: Nelson, center; Wagner, Cook, guards; Fisher, Olin, tackles; Peterson, Tyson, ends; Zosel, quarter; Ernest, Anderson, halves; Miller, full back.

Referee—Ward of Foley.

Anderson was used in Guin's position at halfback, the latter taking up the quarterback post.

Brainerd meets St. Cloud Cathedral here next Friday afternoon. All players will be available for action as no eligibility rules will be enforced, it being a non conference game.

Watching the Scoreboard

(By United Press)

Yesterday's Hero—Chuck Klein who hit his 42nd home run of the season in the first inning of the Philadelphia-Boston game, which the Phils won, 11 to 5. Klein's homer tied Melvin Ott of the New York Giants for the league leadership, and lost the league record set by Rogers Hornsby several years ago.

The St. Louis Cardinals rapped Pittsburgh, 4 to 2, at St. Louis. It was the second straight defeat the Pirates suffered at the hands of the Cards.

All American League games were called off in memory of Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees, whose funeral was held in New York.

WISCONSIN, INDIANA, IOWA AND MICHIGAN

COMPLIES WITH NEW "DOUBLE HEADER" STYLE OF PLAY

LINE WORRIES REPORTED TO BE BOTHERING COACH SPEARS OF MINNESOTA
BY BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Four western conference football teams were to see their 1929 action today.

While six members of the Big Ten preferred to indulge in three weeks of practice before taking on an opponent, four of the teams—Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan and Iowa—scheduled the usual preliminary games.

In point of interest, the game at Bloomington between Indiana and Wabasha took much of the spotlight. Coach Pat Page of the Indians expects to get a good line on his material before meeting Notre Dame next week. Complying with the new "double-header" style of play, Page also has scheduled the Ohio University reserves.

At Madison, Wisconsin clashes with South Dakota State and Ripon; Michigan meets Albion and Mt. Union and Iowa plays a single game with Carroll at Iowa City.

Meanwhile, all Big Ten members continued to prepare for the more important games later in the season. The four admitted championship contenders—Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota and Michigan—have been going through hard scrimmages.

At Illinois, Coach Bob Zuppke has been forced to look for a capable guard as a result of an injury sustained by Roy Wietz. It was hoped Wietz will return to the line-up within two or three weeks but the injured arm of the veteran has not improved as was expected.

At Wisconsin, Coach Glen Thistlethwaite will start his season today with five athletes troubled by "conditions." They are Larry Neupert, Whitey Witte, William Ketelar, Buck Halperin and Parnell Nelson.

Minnesota does not open the season until next Saturday when Coach Doc Spears' men meet Coe at Minneapolis.

Michigan, building around a veteran nucleus which showed well last season is showing fire and drive and Coach Harry Kipke hopes for a championship.

Of the other teams, Northwestern and Purdue appear to be the best. At Northwestern, Coach Dick Hawley has named 32 candidates for his first string squad and his line will be much stronger than he at first thought.

Purdue has a great veteran backfield and Coach Jimmy Phelan's worries seem to settle in the line. However, several youngsters have shown well in practice and the Boilermakers may prove to be the "dark horse" of the Big Ten.

Chicago appears to have little to look forward to and Ohio State is busy filling places left vacant by graduation.

CANZONERI SEEKS A RETURN BOUT FROM MANDELL

COMES AFTER TONY'S TECHNICAL KNOCKOUT OF EDDIE MACK

DENVER COLLEGIAN GAVE CANZONERI PERHAPS HIS HARDEST FIGHT

Chicago, Stadium, Chicago, Sept. 28.—(U.P.) Tony Canzoneri, the slugging New York Italian, demanded a return bout with Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, today as a result of a technical knockout of Eddie Mack, the Denver collegian, last night.

Mack gave Canzoneri perhaps his hardest fight aside from the one Sammy Mandell put up against the swarthy Italian.

The technical knockout came in the eighth round on a lucky punch. They were boxing near the ropes when Mack slipped and literally fell into a left hook. That punch dazed him but he refused to go down. Canzoneri rushed in with a series of lefts and rights and finally pushed his opponent to the floor.

Mack refused to take a count and came up but Referee Phil Collins grabbed him and prevented Canzoneri from inflicting further punishment. Up to the time that Mack went to the floor he had shade in the fight.

ORGANIZE CITY PIN GROUP; COMMITTEE WILL DRAFT RULES

DR. G. I. BADEAUX NAMED PRESIDENT; VAN ESSEN TO HEAD GENERAL RULES BODY

STRAIGHT AWAY AND HANDICAP LEAGUE SUGGESTIONS TO BE ACTED ON MONDAY

The City Bowling Association was formed Wednesday night at a meeting held at the Bowling Alleys. Officers elected were Dr. G. I. Badeaux, president; Jas. Alderman, vice-president; Bob Block, secretary, and Dr. A. K. Cohen, treasurer.

The president appointed a general rules committee composed of C. C. VanEssen, chairman, and Jack Kinney and Bob Block.

This committee is to draft general rules to apply to bowling in both a straight away and a handicap league, and submit them at a meeting of the association next Monday evening at 8:30 P. M.

The officers of the Bowling Association will have charge of bowling in the city, while each league will be generally governed by a committee composed of the captains of each league, who will elect a chairman, the affairs of each league to be run separately.

A Board of Directors composed of two captains of each league and the president of the association, will have full charge of the bowling, making decisions in all matters brought to their attention, and being the court of last resort in any misunderstandings that may arise.

Next Monday evening at 7:30 the captains of the teams will meet to form general rules governing their respective leagues, and submit their findings at the association meeting to be held at 8:30. All meetings are at the alleys.

Entries of teams are now being made at the alleys with the secretary, and should be made as early as possible.

MANY fans on the Pacific Coast feel enthusiastically sure they have two uncrowned champions among the neighbors' children in the form of a coming welterweight, Young Corbett III, of Fresno, Cal., and in the football team of San Francisco's famous Olympic Club.

Young Corbett III is a newcomer to West Coast popularity but the Olympic Club's football fame extends back almost to the introduction of the grid game in California.

Olympic Club teams are composed chiefly of amateur ex-college stars—the pick of the Far West as a rule with stellar native sons predominating. For years, the Olympics have beaten most of their opponents. So strenuous is their characteristic play that rival coaches usually play their second teams against the all-stars with an eye to early season casualty lists.

Such grueling gridsters as Brick Marcus, Mort Kaer, Leo Rooney and Red Crouch lend All-American flavor to the Olympics' play. Few professional teams and still fewer varsity elevens could hope to hold the Olympic Club even.

As to that fast-hitting Fresno Italian, who would further glorify the name of Corbett, friends swear that Champion Jackie Fields is actually ducking their idol's southpaw fury. They point out that the champ wants $20,000 to tackle Corbett III, while he only asked for $15,000 to box such a tough hombre as Gorilla Jones. Of course, Fields frankly says he does not care to box southpaws, but when the purse is big enough you can be sure the champ will give the Fresno kid a crack at his welter crown.

of Chicago---THE CROWN PRINCESS OF AMERICAN GOLF. SHE HAS DESIGNS ON MISS COLLETT'S THRONE!

WITH UNCLE SAM'S leading women golfers about to engage in their annual national championship this year at Oakland Hills, Birmingham, Mich., it will be the field, of course, against Glenna Collett, present champion. She looms as large as Bobby Jones did in all discussions before the recent national amateur championship. That analogy may be pleasant in that it conveys strong tribute to the superiority of Miss Collett's game among women, but it may also be ominous in view of what happened to Jones in the first round of that Pebble Beach tournament which all but flushed the streets of Atlanta with tears!

Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, runner-up last year, should be an overwhelming favorite among the contenders. Her excellent game is especially remarkable in view of the fact that she has suffered from a back ailment for years which makes national tournament play particularly trying for her. Chicago advises indicate that this physical trouble has disappeared. If that be true, Miss Van Wie may be the next national champion.

Neutral criticism has it, however, that Miss Collett will retain her championship, barring accidents. She is the so-called "iron" of the field. But as was Bobby Jones at Pebble Beach, about

BODIES OF 8 MINERS FOUND IN COAL MINE

WERE VICTIMS OF EXPLOSION, SHAFT NO. 7 MINE AT PANAMA, OKLA.

HUNDREDS OF WORKERS TOILED HOURS BRAVING DEADLY GAS

Panama, Okla., Sept. 23.—(UP)—The bodies of eight miners, victims of an explosion which cleaned the 1,500 foot shaft of No. 7 Convington coal mine near here, were recovered today.

Toiling for hours hundreds of rescue workers braved the deadly gas of the wrecked shaft and brought the bodies to the surface where they were claimed by friends and relatives among a crowd of more than a thousand which kept a vigil at the mine last night.

The dead were: Jack Shelton, William Capes, Herman Cureton, Willoughby Wells and Bob Hansen.

Three miners had not been identified definitely.

The mine, shattered by a terrific explosion thought to have resulted from combustion of dust and gas after a dynamite shot, had not been entered today.

JIM BURKE ONCE FIRED McCARTHY

Ranks Next to Kid Gleason for Length of Service.

He made Joe McCarthy carry the bats and Joe did such a bad job that he fired him into his first managerial job. When Joe became manager of the Cubs the first man he hired was the man who fired him—Jimmie Burke.

You may have wondered who is the florid, dignified man who goes down to first base to do the coaching for the Cubs every afternoon, writes Harry Neilly in the Chicago American. That's Jimmy Burke, who is a coach and not a messenger boy for the manager.

"Tomato-face, tomato-face!" a rookie shouted at him one day. What Uncle Jimmie replied never can be printed in this or any other newspaper, but it was sufficient to stop the fresh kid.

"You're on the bats today, young fellow," Burke told McCarthy in 1912. The Indianapolis club of which Jim was manager was going from Minneapolis to St. Paul and wrestling a leather sack full of two dozen bats was no easy chore. Danny Hoffman, the old outfielder, was delegated to assist McCarthy.

"I didn't know whether it was that or something else," Burke says, "but I fired Joe and he went to Wilkes-Barre, where he became manager the next season. He won a championship and you know the rest."

No sooner was McCarthy made manager for the Cubs than he bethought himself of proper associates. He always admired Burke, so when the Toledo club was in Louisville before the 1925 season was done he broached the subject.

"He came around with his car," Jim says, "and we drove up on top of the highest hill back of Louisville. 'I'm going to the Cubs next season,' Joe told me, 'and I want you to go along.'"

"Sure," I said, "I'll go along if you pay me enough money." Well, I've been here ever since, haven't I? I'm the second oldest coach in the majors. Kid Gleason is the only older man on the job. Me? I'm only 54 years old."

Here is Burke's baseball career in brief, he being a third baseman by trade:

1895-96-97—Peoria, Ill., league breaking up July 4.

1897-98—Third baseman for Connie Mack at Milwaukee.

1899—Farmed to Rochester, where he helped Al Buckenberger win a pennant.

1900—Milwaukee again and then with the White Sox, when Clark Griffith managed.

1901-02—Pittsburgh, winning championship in 1902, but there was no world series.

1903-04-05—St. Louis Nationals.

1906-07—Kansas City.

1908—Louisville as manager, later released to Indianapolis.

1909—Fort Wayne as manager.

1911-12—Indianapolis as manager and fired.

1913—Indianapolis as coach.

1918-19-20—St. Louis Browns, assistant to Fiedler Jones.

1921-22-23—Boston Americans, manager.

1924-25—Toledo, manager. Thus he has the peculiar distinction of having worked for both the managers in the impending world series and fired one of them.

When in Milwaukee Burke got in bad with a crowd of Teutonic fans that always sat back of third base. There was feeling between the German and the Irish at that time and Burke was the butt of much rousing. Something had to be done. The secretary of the club called in the newspaper men.

"We are going to make a change at third base," he said. "Hereafter August Friel will play there instead of Burke."

Stories to that effect were printed. This tickled the customers and the hammer-throwing delegation would shout of an afternoon:

"K-nock 'em down to Owgoost Friel—he make 'em out. Much better'n dat tam Burke."

"And him," observes Jim, "as Irish as I am, but it went over big."

Burke is a kindly man of serious mien. He makes the chief coaching job a position of dignity and responsibility. He knows what should be done on and off the ball field and does it quietly, efficiently and in a way that pleases. He has been of vast assistance to the young man he fired.

"Uncle" Jim has one weakness. He wears a derby hat in winter.

William T. Stobbs is the new football coach at Wittenberg college.

Fidel LaBarba will invade Europe as a featherweight, visiting London, Paris and Berlin.

Chick Meehan's teams have won 29 games, lost 6 and tied 3 during his coaching at New York university.

Hal Janvin, former star of the Boston Red Sox, is still playing ball for Quincy in the Boston Twilight league.

The Detroit arena where Dundee and Fields met, is square in design. Most arenas have been circular or with six or eight sides.

Peter A. Rasmus, Ashtabula, three times champion of the Big Ten in the discus throw, has been elected honorary captain of the 1930 Ohio State track team.

Elon G. Hogsett, star hurler of the Montreal Royals, and one of the sensations of the International Baseball league this season, has been sold to the Detroit Tigers.

Widely-heralded "record" golf scores are really nothing of the sort. Officially, a record score can only be made in a medal-play competition, with the holes and tees in their proper medal position.

Grover Cleveland Alexander brought in thirty or more victories a season in three successive years for the Phillies, winning thirty-one games in 1915, thirty-three in 1916 and thirty in 1917.

Infelder Leonard Dondoro of the St. Louis Browns has been sent to the Tulsa team of the Western league on an option.

Knoxville, Tenn., is bidding for a return to the Southern league and rumors have it that Mobile will sell its franchise.

Connie Mack, owner of the Philadelphia Athletics, recalled Bevo Lebourveau, center fielder of the Milwaukee Brewers, and sent Ossie Orwoll, utility man for the Athletics, to the Brewers on option.

Robert Weiland, left-handed pitcher of the Chicago White Sox has been released to the Toledo club on option.

In a batting streak of 15 hits in 15 times at bat George Quelling, of Reading, made five home runs and a double.

GREATER INTEREST IN WORLD SERIES

Fans Show Eagerness for Ducats at Higher Prices.

(By CHAS. H. CROWELL.)

Interest in baseball is more intense this year than it has been for some time, as is evidenced by the fans' eagerness for ducats for the world series. Tickets are being sold at a good premium and those fans who have their seats reserved are in big luck. Scalpers are taking advantage of the situation to reap a harvest, and although both stands have been enlarged as much as possible, the devotees are going to find it difficult to get a seat.

Predictions were made early in the season that the people attending this year's world series would be small because so many sport lovers had gone over to golf, tennis, track, field and other games. However, late comers are going to experience the same trouble in obtaining seating accommodations that they have in previous years.

The usual arguments, pro and con, as to the relative merits of the various players are being indulged in and betting is about as usual, with opinion evenly divided. In some quarters of the East the Athletics rule as slight favorites, on account of their pitchers.

This is the second time the Cubs and Athletics have clashed, the two teams coming together first in 1910 when the Athletics won 4 games to 1. The Athletics won two other series, one in 1911 from the Giants and again in 1913, also from the Giants.

The sensation of the Cleveland Indians is young Wes Ferrell, the pitcher.

Ethan Allen, Cincinnati outfielder, is one big leaguer who plays on his home club.

The Yankee baseball club gets 10 per cent of the gate at the shows staged at the stadium.

Little Rock has signed three players to 1930 contracts, John Lewis, Warren Smith and Jim Woodfin.

Robert Weiland, left-handed pitcher of the Chicago White Sox has been released to the Toledo club on option.

THE ONLY TWO GAMES CAP ANSON EVER PARTICIPATED IN IN WORLD SERIES WERE IN 1885 AND 1886, WHEN HE WAS DEFEATED BY CHARLIE COMISKEY, THEN MANAGER OF THE ST. LOUIS BROWNS.

Comiskey came to life again in 1917, when his team, led by "Pants" Rowland, defeated John McGraw's Giants.

McGraw and his Giants have won the series three times, while Connie Mack has been successful three times. Miller Huggins and his Yankees have won the prize three times. Three times McGraw and Huggins have clashed, the Giants winning twice. Frank Chance and Fiedler Jones came together in Chicago in 1906, the American leaguers winning.

From 1884 to 1890 American association and National league champion teams battled for the world title, a baseball war in 1891 stopping competition. The world series of 1892 was between the teams that finished first in the National league split season—the only divided campaign.

In 1884 Providence of the National league and the Metropolitans of the American association played the first series for the world title, Providence capturing three straight games. World series rivalry between the National and American leagues began in 1903. There was no series in 1904, President Brush of the Giants refusing to meet the Boston Red Sox until such time as the national commission would formulate rules to govern the games.

Results of past world series between National league and American league teams:

1903—Boston, A. L., 5 games; Pittsburgh, N. L., 3 games.

1904—No series.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH PROSPEROUS

Annual Meeting of Church Was Held. Large Attendance Present Thursday Night

ENCOURAGING REPORTS

Gain in Membership Recorded, Finances Good, Election of Officers

The annual meeting of the First Congregational church was held in the church parlors Thursday evening and though the weather was stormy, there was a good attendance.

Reports from all departments indicated that the church was in good condition.

Dr. George H. Ribbel, clerk, reported a net gain of 11 members for the year, the present membership being 175.

Mrs. A. C. Weber, treasurer, reported total receipts for the year of $4,114.44 and expenditures of $3,923.52 with all bills paid except a note for $100 at the bank and funds enough on hand to pay that.

Mrs. E. J. Cook, treasurer of the Ladies Aid society told of having received during the year $1,787.32 and of having on hand $217.15 after having expended $1,570.17.

The report of Geo. D. LaBar, chairman of the board of trustees, read in part as follows:

The annual report of the trustees for the past year shows a somewhat improved condition over that shown at any annual meeting probably. For nearly a score of years, the present indebtedness is a note of $100.00 in the bank and we have cash on hand sufficient to pay same but just at this time it seems desirable to retain our cash balance to meet accruing expenses until we get our canvass for the coming year completed.

A year ago our indebtedness was $697.97 which was somewhat reduced by the collection of unpaid subscriptions but the great help and reduction of the debt came from the Ladies Aid, who paid in during the year $400.00 on debts in addition to their subscription of $500.00 to the General Expense Fund. Surely without the Ladies Aid we never would have weathered the many financial difficulties that we have successfully overcome in years past.

The financial affairs of the church are really in better shape at this time than for several years, but there can be no let down, if you are to continue its affairs even in as good condition as today.

We have every reason to believe that our subscribers will loyally renew their subscriptions for the coming year and help in some way to provide the amount to cover the budget and make some progress with the auditorium requirements.

We shall shortly appoint several of our people to act as solicitors for our next year's funds. Please remember that most of these solicitors are busy men giving their time to make this canvass in addition to subscribing themselves. Therefore, we ask that you help them as much as possible by responding fairly and promptly.

The report of the treasurer of benevolence, Miss Corna M. Stickney was for nine months only. Since January 1, 1929, $330.47 has been raised for benevolences, outstanding pledges will bring the total for the year to about $400.

Reports from the church school, the Missionary society, the Christian Endeavor society and other organizations indicate a healthy condition.

The following officers were elected: Deacons, three year terms: Christian Bruhn and H. R. Day.

Deaconesses, three year terms: Mrs. George Thomas and Mrs. J. M. Elder. Trustees, three years: F. W. Wieland, J. P. Anderson.

Clerk, Dr. G. H. Ribbel. Auditor: H. S. Durham. Church School Superintendent: Rev. N. P. Olmsted.

Head Usher: Gaylord Kinney.

PRAISE RICE LAKE FOR WATER LANDING

Officials of Kingston-Rhodes Airways "Drop In" to Escape

Bad Weather

FIVE RIDE IN RYAN PLANE

Wait Here for Better Visibility Before Continuing to Homes in Eveleth

Officials of the Kingston-Rhodes Airways Inc. of Eveleth today praised Rice Lake and Lum Park as one of the best landing places for a hydroplane in Minnesota, such praise being doubly sincere by the fact that they were able to seek refuge there from an impending rain storm on their flight from Minneapolis to their home town on the range.

In the party are: C. R. "Dusty" Rhodes, pilot, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Kingston, W. A. Kingston and Edward Saaristo.

Striking bad weather on their flight north from the Mill City, "Dusty" Rhodes who brought his hydroplane to water last summer at Rice Lake on a flight from California knew conditions at the landing and dropped in to "wait for clearer skies." The seaplane landed at 3:25 p. m. yesterday.

The "ship" is a Ryan make, 330 horsepower, and is similar in type to the epic making Lindbergh plane, "The Spirit of St. Louis."

"It appears that with very little expense Brainerd has provided one of the finest airports for water birds existing today," M. A. Kingston said. Other cities with water landings should visit Brainerd's Park on the lake to learn how much may be accomplished with little effort.

"Over water flying is more important to Minnesota today than any other passenger flying. The aviation industry as a whole has very recently turned to overwater flying mainly for safety but largely for convenient approach to larger cities and economy in construction and landing facilities.

"The Kingston-Rhodes Airways are strong boosters for Brainerd to overwater fliers. We tell them 'depend on Brainerd as a good place to sit down' whether you are waiting for fair weather or at any other occasion."

Blue Blood And Red

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Eddie Regan, once a member of a New York gang, has escaped and gone to Virginia, where he befriends Penfield Paradine, who dies and leaves all his possessions to Eddie. Eddie had been in love with Bernice Veressi, "gang girl," but all thought of her is put out of his head when he meets and falls in love with Marian Thorndike. Eddie declares his love for Marian, but she discourages him and tells him she expects to marry Tom Freeman. Freeman dislikes Eddie, and one afternoon when Eddie is calling on Marian, Freeman comes in and insults Eddie. Marian tells Eddie it is hopeless for him to love her, and Eddie, discouraged, decides to go to Richmond. While he is there he meets Mike Arno, a former member of the gang. Arno tells him that Bernice is still in love with him (Eddie) and Eddie's thoughts once more swing to her. Eddie tells Mike of his love for Marian and Mike informs him he is not fitted for country life and is a "sap."

Now Go On with the Story

CHAPTER XXVIII.

It was useless to expect Mike Arno to comprehend the angle of real love, and Eddie gave up trying to explain. Six months ago he would have agreed with every word Arno said—but it was all different now. He had seen a vision that guys like Arno simply could not get.

"Let's not talk about it any more, Mike."

"All right, Eddie. Some day you'll realize that I had the right dope. You've got a real girl waiting for you in New York—Bernice's been through the mill and, for a guy like you, she's perfect. I'd grab her off myself but there's not a chance in the world. If you hook up with me we could make all kinds of jack—but that's over too, I guess."

"That stuff," Eddie said with a tone of finality, "is out with me forever. But that don't mean I am passing up my old friends, Mike. I'd like to hear from you sometimes—drop me a letter."

Before they parted he gave Mike Arno his address; but this was more politeness than anything else. Never again, he realized, more poignantly than ever, would his path go along with Mike's, or anybody like him. They parted after dinner and Eddie spent the night in the hotel. For the first time in weeks he did not sleep easily; his ears had become unused to the night noises of the city and he was constantly disturbed by street cars and automobiles. When he took the train the next day for the country he felt truly that he was going home, the only real home on earth he had ever had.

Meeting Mike Arno had given him a whiff once more of the old city life and it had stood out in vivid contrast against the quieter existence in the country. Eddie tried to look at the facts honestly—were it not for Marian would he have spurned Arno's insistent temptations? No use kidding himself. Except for Marian, he knew he would never spend another day on the farm. She was the magnet that drew him back. She was the light that illuminated his whole life for better or worse, for happiness or sorrow. Marian Thorndike was now and would ever be the heart and center of his whole existence.

His mind was faded from trying to solve his problem. She had practically given him the air—because he was not making anything out of himself.

"It's wonderful," he breathed.

with the strangely accurate philosophy of the curb stone.

This kernel of truth, somehow, began to comfort him, if he couldn't win Marian in his own proper, genuine person it was silly to think she'd fall for him if he pumped up a lot of artificial pretenses. She didn't know herself what she wanted him to do.

Back once more in the Penfield Paradine home, Eddie was conscious of a deep, inner repose. The old furniture with its timemellowed surfaces soothed him and was balm to his troubled spirit. It was as though some ripe and beneficent kindness was imprisoned in the close-grained polish of the wood; his finger tips touched a mahogany table and a quiet current of well-being flowed into his nerves. Things like old furniture and silver candle sticks belonged to the life of Marian Thorndike—they belonged to his life, too. A yearning to see her again assailed him with a tide that blurred out everything else from his consciousness.

The telephone rang and old Toke answered it.

"Miss Marian wants to speak to you, sub."

There was a swirl of acute sensation in Eddie's breast as he answered the telephone. That Marian should call him up startled him, excited him with a swift rush of delight. Her dear voice over the wire was warm and friendly.

"I didn't really expect to catch you at home," he said. "My cook heard you had gone away—and I thought maybe you Toke could tell me what had become of you. And now I catch you at home yourself—it's rather silly, isn't it?"

"It's wonderful," he breathed. "I thought maybe you were going away for good—I am going to live here all my life."

"Well, I'm glad you didn't run away from us, anyway." Her voice, he thought, was fluttery. "I was a little worried—so I took the trouble to call up."
